Projects will also incorporate elements of fantasy, history and community-building. There is a particular focus on teamwork, project completion and building skills. Our LEGO® classes incorporate key elements from S.T.E.M. (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) as young brainiacs are challenged to create projects inspired by people, places and things we see in the world around us. STAR Eco Station News!!!

The Ocean Connection!

Setting Sail by the Moon and the Stars!!

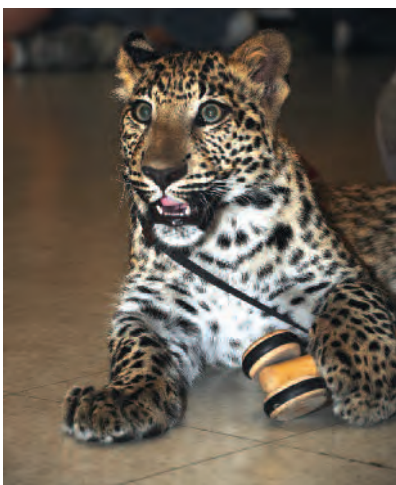

We are proud to have been selected by our partners at the Wishotoyo Chumash Foundation Native American Community to be on the Welcome Committee for the landing of the Pacific Voyagers in Malibu. The landing in Malibu was part of the voyage, undertaken by "ordinary" citizens of various countries to strengthen ties with the sea, renew commitments to healthy ecosystems for future generations, and to honor their ancestors who have sailed before them, ever embodying the official motto of their voyage: "Move your paddle silently through the water."

The Eco Station will be among a number of leading environmental science institutions promoting their journey. We are honored to be part of this heroic and selfless effort to bring attention to the plight of our oceans and the limitless capacity for good within all of us.

For more information please contact the Eco Station and visit www.pacificvoyagers.org.

Big Cat Visits the STAR Eco Summer Campers!

Campers enrolled in the STAR Eco Station's Feline Friends week of summer camp were treated to a special visit from a furry friend! Cairo, a seven month old leopard cub, showed off his spots to an enthralled group of campers! Hayden Rosenaur of A2Z Animals brought young Cairo to educate the campers on this remarkable and endangered species.

While campers watched Cairo tackle his stuffed animal toys, leap onto his handler, and take a quick cat nap, they learned about issues involving how declawing affects a cat, why we shouldn't keep wild cats as pets, and how we all can help this beautiful species in the wild. Throughout this week, the campers learned all about cat behavior, special cat adaptations like tails and eyes, and even made fun toys for Eco's rescued wild cats!

The week ended with another visit, this time from exotic feline veterinarian Dr. Jennifer Conrad. With fascinating visitors like these, it's no wonder Feline Friends is always a roaring good time!

Get involved and save the environment!
